Version 3

March 23, 2023

Revised by Dean Rehberger, Walter Hawthorne, Daryle Williams, Catherine Foley, Alicia Sheill, Sharon Leon, Steven Niven, Kristina Poznan, and Marisol Fila

Thank you to individuals who contributed to authoring various versions of Enslaved.org's Controlled Vocabularies: Heather Bollinger, Ryan Carty, Luísa Cruz, David Eltis, Ina Fandrich, Jessica Fletcher, Henry Louis Gates, Jr., Daniel Genkins, Seila Gonzalez Estrecha, Gwendolyn Midlo Hall, Kathe Hambrick, Paul LaChance, Jane Landers, Paul Lovejoy, Henry Lovejoy, Keith McClelland, Érika Melek Delgado, Jeff Mixter, Jim Schindling, Kara Schultz, Angela Sutton, Duncan Tarr, Bruna Tine, and Ethan Watrall.

Enslaved.org uses controlled vocabularies for nine fields in order to promote searching, browsing, filtering, and visualizing data. Developed in collaboration with a team of historians and information scientists, the controlled vocabularies used by the project engage with the evolving scholarship on anti-racist classification and terminology in information studies and black digital humanities.¹

The first iteration of Enslaved.org's controlled vocabularies, released in July 2019, reflected the data available in the project's original datasets. Version 2, published in May 2021, refined or expanded several definitions, often with examples, mindful of historical heterogeneity and recent historiography on the slave trade and slave societies. A Change Log documenting the revisions appears at the end of this document. Version 3 added several roles of individuals in events and document types, reflecting the needs of new data submitted to the project. Contributors can propose additions and changes to the controlled vocabularies at any time if the current terms do not sufficiently reflect the information in their datasets and the experiences of enslaved people they are studying.

Enslaved.org's controlled vocabulary system includes 1 list for EVENT, 6 for PERSON, 1 for PLACE, and 1 for SOURCE. All terms and definitions currently in use by Enslaved.org are listed in this document. The categories herein are not exhaustive; additions can be made to accurately represent new data.

18. Employee: A person whose labor or services are engaged by a particular employer or business in exchange for money, kind, or debt relief. Includes those whose labor or services are secured through guardianship.

Person Status

Definition

Category identifying the legal or social standing, on a spectrum of bondage to freedom, of a person or organization involved in an event -- determined at the outcome of the event. This field focuses on broad groupings often of interest to researchers of the historical slave trade and slave societies. Sometimes this status is taken directly from an original source (e.g., certificate of manumission, fugitive slave advertisement; registry of free persons of color, baptismal registry of enslaved or free persons; slave ship manifest). In other instances, the status is imputed by the researcher.

1. Enslaved Person: Person whose body, labor, and reproductive rights are owned by or fall under the dominion of another person or organization in a social or legal system of involuntary servitude.
2. Free Person: Person who is not enslaved (but may have been born to enslaved parents or freed by rights of free soil, abolition laws, or some other manner).
3. Freed Person: Person who was at one point enslaved and subsequently manumitted by self-purchase or by acts of the former enslaver, a judge, or the state.
4. Indentured Person or Pawn: Person who is a servant or ward whose labor and service are bound to a person or organization for a fixed term, sometimes under a contract, including as collateral against a debt.
5. Enslaver or Owner: Person or organization who owns or has dominion over the body, labor, and reproductive rights of another person in a social or legal system of involuntary servitude. Also known as slave master or mistress, slave owner, or slaveholder. Includes former enslavers, concessionaires, and overseers.
6. Liberated African: Person enslaved in Africa, intercepted during an act of clandestine slave trafficking and liberated under limited personal and legal autonomy by a civil authority, judge, mixed commission, or vice admiralty court. Includes emancipado, Free African, Freed African, or recaptive.
7. Liminal Status Person: Person in an indeterminate, intermediate, or transitional status between servitude and freedom (i.e., dependent children born to the free womb; enslaved persons extended conditional liberty or promised future manumission; orphaned minors) or who has escaped bondage but neither lives nor is legally recognized as free or freed.

Role within Event (by specific Event Type)

Definition

How the named person was involved in one specific EVENT. A PERSON can have 1 Role within Event (Role) per EVENT. The type of EVENT determines possible Role options. Role is granular for the primary or main PERSON(s) involved in the EVENT. Other PERSONs will be connected to the EVENT as a generic "Participant." "Participant" asserts that a PERSON is involved in the EVENT in an unspecified way.

1. Roles in Advertisement Event
